Your First Week in Academic Reset

Start with the assignments coming due soon, two study blocks, and a quick review. Use the worksheet as you try the planner.

01 Open your current course schedules. Add only the work due this week and give each assignment a specific next action.

02 Put two realistic study sessions in your plan. Keep a backup window for the task you're most likely to have to move.

03 At the end of the week, review what moved and why. If you're using cloud saving, select Save online after edits.

> Hypothetical: Open a research paper task, then write "compare two sources and note the differences" as your next action. Put that action into Tuesday's study block.
